Tech Tuesdays
with Media Technologist Tom Corcoran

Blogs and Wikis
○ February 10: 11 am - Noon
○ February 17: 1 - 2 pm
Come find out how you can use blogs and wikis as a communication tool. Blogs allow you to create your own web site, post your thoughts on topics, and receive feedback in the form of comments from your audience. Wikis provide for a unique, easy way to collaborate over the Internet with a specific group of people on a wide range of topics.

Sharing: Photos & Documents
○ March 17: 11 am - Noon
○ March 24: 1 - 2 pm
In this workshop we'll emphasize sharing... something that would make mom proud. Come learn how to upload all those vacation photos to online sites such as Flickr or Picasa allowing you to share photos over the web. Also covered will be document sharing. Using tools such as Google Docs you can collaborate with multiple users on Word Documents, Excel Spreadsheets or PowerPoint Slides/Presentation all online.

Screen Recording with Camtasia
○ April 14: 11 am - Noon
○ April 21: 1 - 2 pm
Learn out how to record anything you do on a computer screen and share it with others. With Camtasia you can add audio narration to PowerPoint presentations, record yourself navigating to particular places on the Internet, show an audience how to use a piece of software, create training videos and more.

Open to all Faculty and Staff of Heartland Community College
For more information: x.8427 • tom.corcoran@heartland.edu