Outstanding Full-Time Faculty

Chris Miller

Chris Miller is a Distinguished Professor of Renewable Energy who pairs deep technical expertise with a student-first approach marked by humor, enthusiasm, and memorable storytelling. Since joining Heartland in 2000, his hands-on labs have helped students connect theory to practice, building both confidence and competence for the workforce.

Miller's contributions to his field extend well beyond the Heartland campus. At the state level, he contributes to clean-energy workforce initiatives and helps build early college and dual credit pathways with regional partners. Nationally, through his involvement with the CREATE Energy National Center, he supports two-year colleges across the country in adopting industry-aligned curriculum and faculty development. His work also reaches internationally, including certification partnerships in China, renewable energy coursework in Belize, and participation as a Fulbright-Hays recipient in East Africa. Through his work, Miller strengthens career pathways and advances the role of community colleges worldwide.

Outstanding Part-Time Faculty

Sonja Workman

Since joining Heartland Community College in 2021, Sonja Workman has shaped the Recovery Support Specialist Certificate program as both instructor and Program Coordinator, playing a pivotal role in developing its curriculum. Workman creates a compassionate, inclusive learning environment where every student feels supported and empowered. Her real-world experience, deep commitment to the recovery community, and unwavering encouragement inspire students to persist through challenges.

Students describe her as nonjudgmental, understanding, and a mentor who “made a major impact on my future” and “is determined to change lives.” Many students credit her guidance with helping them overcome personal obstacles and stay on track academically. Workman’s dedication, leadership, and transformative influence on students and the broader community demonstrate the impact she has had as a part-time faculty member.

Student Speaker, David Helms

Helms grew up in Bloomington, and graduated from Normal Community West High School. After serving four years in the United States Navy, he returned to Heartland to further his education. During his time at Heartland, he was involved in the Student Government Association, worked in the Veterans Center, was nominated for and attended the Heartland Emerging Leaders program, and led the Student Veterans Association as Chapter President. After graduation, Helms is transferring to Illinois State University to pursue a degree in Cyber Security.
